WEEKLY CROP REPORT!

SPECTS THROUGHOUT STATE OF KENTUCKY.

GENERAL REVIEW.

The weather conditions of the week just closed though far from being all that the farmer might wish, were, upon the the farmer might wish, were, upon the whole, more favorable to crops than the for some time past. The temperatu continued low throughout the week, on going above the normal upon one da The amount of precipitation was let than the normal throughout the state, and came mainly in the form of light scattered showers, of which the Central and Western counsies received the great-test number. In many sections no rain whatever fell. This is true of the counties from Montgomery Northward to the Obio, including Pleming, Mason and adjoining counties, and the bluegrass district received only very light showers. Crops generally have made slow progress, and the majority of them are still than the normal throughout the state gress, and the majority of them are st backward, but there is nothing in the condition which will prevent their com-plete restoration with the advent of favorable weather conditions. The abun-dant sunshine has permitted of the thorough working of the fields, and the are, in consequence, unusually free of Reports from this section are som what conflicting in character, especially in regard to the condition of wheat, b it seems apparent that it is better in the more Easterly and Southerly countie than in the extreme Western ones. Complaints are made of chinch bugs in many salities, but they have not as yet do material injury to the crop. Rust is also reported from many places, but it appear to be confined mainly to the blades, no naving attacked the grain to any grea naving stateact the grain to any great extent. Altogether the prespects for the crop may be said to be good, despite the injurious influences which have affected it in many localities. Corn is growing slowly, and reports regarding it are for the most part unfavorable, the genera complaint being that it is yellow and un healthy in appearance. The majority nearthy in appearance. The majority of the fields have been plowed and are fre of weeds and grasses. Tobacco settin has made much progress during the week and in localities where rain favored th work it is practically completed. Man omplaints are made of a shortage complaints are made of a shortage plants, especially from the counties alo the Tennessee border.
